STANDARD for excellence of TYPE IN THE OLD ENGLISH BULL-DOG as adopted by the BULL-DOG CLUB OF AMERICA 1896

General Appearance Attitude Expression Etc. THE perfect Bull-Dog must be of medium size and smooth coat; with heavy thick set, low-slung body; massive short-faced head; wide shoulders and sturdy limbs. The general appearance and attitude should suggest great stability, vigor and strength. The disposition should be equable and kind, resolute and courageous (not vicious or aggressive), and the demeanor should be pacific and dignified. These attributes should be countenanced by the expression and behavior.

Gait The style and carriage are peculiar, his gait being a loose-jointed, shuffling, sidewise motion, giving the characteristic "roll." The action must, however, be unrestrained, free and vigorous.

Proportion and Symmetry The "points" should be well distributed and bear good relation one to the others, no feature being in such prominence from either excess or lack of quality that the animal appears deformed or illy proportioned. Influence of Sex In comparison of specimens of different sex, due allowance should be made in favor of the bitches, which do not bear the characteristics of the breed to the same degree of perfection and grandeur as do the dogs.

Size The size for mature dogs is about 50 pounds; for mature bitches about 40 pounds.

Coat The coat should be straight, short, flat, close, of fine texture, smooth and glossy. (No fringe, feather or curl.)

Color of Coat The color of coat should be uniform, pure of its kind and brilliant. The various colors found in the breed are to be preferred in the following order:—

(1) Red brindle, (2) all other brindles, (3) solid white, (4) solid red, fawn or fallow, (5) piebald, (6) inferior qualities of all the foregoing. (NOTE.—A perfect piebald is preferable to a muddy brindle or defective solid color.)

Solid black is very undesirable, but not so objectionable if occurring to a moderate degree in piebald patches. The brindles, to be perfect, should have a fine, even and equal distribution of the composite colors.

In brindles and solid colors a small white patch on the chest is not considered detrimental. In piebalds the color patches should be well defined, of pure color, and symmetrically distributed.

Skin The skin should be soft and loose, especially at the head, neck and shoulders.

Wrinkle and Dewlap

The head and face should be covered with heavy wrinkles, and at the throat, from jaw to chest, there should be two loose pendulous folds, forming the dewlap.

Skull

The skull should be very large, and in circumference, in front of the ears, should measure at least the height of the dog at the shoulders.

Viewed from the front, it should appear very high from the corner of the lower jaw to the apex of the skull, and also very broad and square.

Viewed at the side, the head should appear very high, and very short from the point of the nose to occiput.

The forehead should be flat (not rounded or "domed"), neither too prominent nor overhanging the face.

Cheeks

The cheeks should be well rounded, protruding sidewise and outward beyond the eyes.

Stop

The temples or frontal bones should be very well defined, broad, square and high, causing a hollow groove between the eyes. This indentation, or "stop," should be both broad and deep and extend up the middle of the forehead, dividing the head vertically, being traceable to the top of the skull.

Eyes and Eyelids

The eyes, seen from the front, should be situated low down in the skull, as far from the ears as possible, and their corners should be in a straight line at right angles with the stop. They should be quite in front of the head, as wide apart as possible, provided their outer corners are within the outline of the cheeks when viewed from the front.

They should be quite round in form, of moderate size, neither sunken nor bulging, and in color should be very dark.

The lids should cover the white of the eyeball, when the dog is looking directly forward, and the lid should show no "haw."

Ears

The ears should be set high in the head, the front inner edge of each ear joining the outline of the skull at the top back corner of skull, so as to place them as wide apart, and as high, and as far from the eyes as possible.

In size they should be small and thin. The shape termed "rose ear" is the most desirable. The "rose ear" folds inward at its back lower edge, the upper front edge curving over, outward and backward, showing part of the inside of the burr. (The ears should not be carried erect or "prick-eared" or "buttoned" and should never be cropped.)

Face

The face, measured from the front of the cheek bone to the tip of nose, should be extremely short, the muzzle being very short, broad, turned upward and very deep from the corner of the eye to the corner of the mouth.

Nose

The nose should be large, broad and black, its tip being set back deeply between the eyes.

The distance from the bottom of stop, between the eyes, to the tip of nose, should be as short as possible, and not exceed the length from the tip of nose to the edge of under lip.

The nostrils should be wide, large and black, with a well-defined line between them. (The parti-color or "butterfly nose" and the flesh-color or "Dudley nose" are decidedly objectionable, but do not disqualify for competition.)

Chops

The chops or "fews" should be thick, broad, pendant and very deep, completely overhanging the lower jaw at each side.

They join the under lip in front and almost or quite cover the teeth, which should be scarcely noticeable when the mouth is closed.

Jaws

The jaws should be massive, very broad, square and "undershot," the lower jaw projecting considerably in front of the upper jaw, and turning up.

Teeth

The teeth should be large and strong, with the canine teeth or tusks wide apart, and the six small teeth in front, between the canines, in an even, level row.

Neck

The neck should be short, very thick, deep and strong, and well arched at the back.

Shoulders

The shoulders should be muscular, very heavy, widespread and slanting outward, giving stability and great power.

Chest

The chest should be very broad, deep and full.

Brisket and Body

The brisket and body should be very capacious, with full sides, well rounded ribs, and very deep from the shoulders, down to its lowest part, where it joins the chest.

It should be well let down between the shoulders and forelegs, giving the dog a broad, low, short-legged appearance.

Back

The back should be short and strong, very broad at the shoulder and comparatively narrow at the loins. There should be a slight fall in the back, close behind the shoulders (its lowest part), whence the spine should rise to the loins (the top of which should be higher than the top of the shoulders), thence curving again more suddenly to the tail, forming an arch (a very distinctive feature of the breed), termed "rump-back," or, more correctly, "wheel-back."

Forelegs

The forelegs should be short, very stout, straight and muscular, set wide apart, with well developed calves, presenting a bowed outline, but the bones of the legs should not be curved or bandy, nor the feet brought too close together.

Elbows

The elbows should be low, and stand well out and loose from the body.

Hindlegs

The hindlegs should be strong and muscular, and longer than the forelegs, so as to elevate the loins above the shoulders.

Hocks should be slightly bent and well let down, so as to give length and strength from loins to hock.

The lower leg should be short, straight and strong, with the stifles turned slightly outward and away from the body. The hocks are thereby made to approach each other, and the hind feet to turn outward.

Feet

The feet should be moderate in size, compact and firmly set. Toes compact, well split up, with high knuckles, and with short and stubby nails.

The front feet may be straight or slightly out-turned, but the hind feet should be pointed well outward.

Tail

The tail may be either straight or "screwed" (but never curved or curly), and in any case must be short, hung low, with decided downward carriage, thick root and fine tip.

If straight, the tail should be cylindrical and of uniform taper.

If "screwed" the bends or kinks should be well defined, and they may be abrupt and even knotty, but no portion of the member should be elevated above the base or root.

AT STUD THE FAMOUS BULL DOG

Katerfelto

Fee, $30. To Members of Bull-Dog Club of America, $25

The following appears in the Christmas No. of "Our Dogs", England:

CHAMPION KATERFELTO

Ch. KATERFELTO, K. C. S. B., 41123. This magnificent white and brindle dog, who has had so successful a bench career, was in the very pink of condition, and as active as a cat. He was, perhaps, never so good a dog as he is to day, and he impressed us very much. His great length of skull, well turned up under jaw, heavy chop and wealth of wrinkle, supplemented by the extraordinary width of his chest, weight of bone, and grand ribs, must ever keep him in the very front of the Bull Dog fancy. He is the beau-ideal of a stud dog, and it is generally admitted by Bull Dog men that bitches sired by him and his illustrious litter brother, the departed Ch. Boomerang, will play a leading part in the breeding of the champion British Bull Dogs of future days. Mr. Crabtree himself has great faith in this theory, and has a number of bitches by these sires from which he intends to breed. We saw them, and noted that, without exception, they were particularly good in turn up and lay-back, two difficult points to obtain, but which Katerfelto invariably transmits to his progeny.

Katerfelto's winnings are legion, and a recapitulation of them would fill a column of our space. It is necessary for us to say that in addition to his four championships, he has won over 200 first prizes under almost every known Bull Dog judge.

AMERICAN RECORD. New York show, February, 1900. First Limit class. First Open class. First Winners class.

SPECIALS. Silver medal for best Bull Dog. Silver medal for best pair (show with Housewife).

CHICAGO MARCH 1900

First Limit. First Open.

First Winners.
